

Potomac Valley Specialty Show 2002

It was a privilege and a pleasure to be invited to judge the Potomac Valley Specialty Show 2002. It was a real pleasure to go over so many lovely typical and rangy hounds and happily very few of the short-legged or the heavily built square variety so untypical of a sight-hound. There was plenty of quality and promise in the puppy classes and in the 12 - 18 months old bitch class.

It is rather unfair to judge young males too harshly. They go through so many awkward stages as they grow. Some lines do not mature until they are up to four years old. The lines being shown seem to mature well, there were plenty of good hounds, both males and females, in the Best of Breed Competition. In some of the classes there was often little to choose between the winners. The hounds in the two veteran classes were lovely, very typical. I omit critical comments on the movement in the veteran classes in deference to their age.

Now that the gene pool for type is well established in your lines, this allows you to work on improving movement which was, in general, disappointing. There were plenty of hounds with a good stride but most of the hounds were unsound coming and going. Many well constructed hounds exhibited poor movement coming and going and this made me wonder if the cause was environmental (feeding or exercise) rather than genetic. It is a wise policy to note the breeders whose hounds have sound movement and take their advice on feeding and exercising.

The other problem to work on is lack of angulation in the forequarters. Straight fronts tend to be a general problem in the breed and it may take time and patience to establish good fronts.

I would like to thank each and every one of the officers and committee who made me feel so welcome and to thank the exhibitors for their good sportsmanship. My thanks too to Peter Van Brunt, the Chief Steward, who kept the show running so efficiently. My congratulations to your Club on the good atmosphere so apparent and on running such a relaxed and friendly show.
